POLICY

Heritage of the Great Plains is a journal of folklore, art, music, or life in the Great Plains. Some poetry and short stories should be typed and submitted by The Chicago Manual of Style. A short vita on the author, returned only on request and when sent with a self-addressed, stamped envelope, is required. A responsibility for photographs or illustrations with articles is assumed. Copies may be purchased for $2.50 on request and when sent with a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

HERITAGE OF THE GREAT PLAINS

THEME: FLINT HILLS FOLKLIFE

STUDYING FLINT HILLS FOLKLIFE
by James Hoy 1

THE FRENCH COLONY OF THE COTTONWOOD VALLEY
by Barbara Livingston 3

THE CHASE COUNTY PARK OF 1935
by Daniel D. Menke 11

THE GERMANIC-APOSTOLICS OF GRIDLEY
by Frances A. Foree 14

THE RIVER SHAPED OUR LIVES
by Sally Neill Bridge 20

CONTRIBUTORS

James Hoy, professor of English at Emporia State University is a native of Cassoday, Kansas. He received his B.S. degree from Kansas State University, the M.A. degree from Kansas State Teachers College, and the Ph.D. degree from the University of Missouri, Columbia. He is the author and coauthor of several books.

Barbara Livingston, born and raised in Chase County, Kansas, is a graduate of Fort Hays (Kansas) State University. She taught English and journalism in Great Bend, Garden City and Marion, Kansas. She and her husband Ted Livingston, a special education teacher, now live in Cottonwood Falls where she is a freelance writer and substitute teacher.

Frances Foree was raised on the family farm near Gridley. She is the fourth generation to operate this farm. She graduated from Emporia State University in 1970 with a B.S. She taught elementary school for eight years at St. Paul and Meriden in Kansas, and now substitute teaches at Gridley where her husband Jim is a middle school science teacher. Fran and Jim are also actively engaged in a farming and ranching operation.

Daniel D. Menke is a native of Concordia, Kansas. He received his B.S. and M.S. degrees from Emporia State University. Since 1969 he has been a social science teacher and coach at Chase County High School in Cottonwood Falls.

Sally Neill Bridge graduated from Kansas State University with a B.S. and an M.S. in Guidance and Counseling and has worked as a social worker. She is currently employed as a part-time instructor at Hutchinson Community College. She is also working on teacher certification in secondary English at Wichita State University.